HIS NATIVE CITY.

William Robertson Trigg was born in Richmond May 11, 1849.

The blood of many generations of men, lonorable in private life and prominent in the achievement of deeds for the public weal, flowed in his veins and was his by right of heritage. He was named for William Robertson, an uncle, who was Governor of the State. His father was Liburn Henderson Trigg, who married But bara Colcuphoun, his mother. During the early years of the war he went to school in Richmond. In vacations he was accustomed to visit Mr. James Gait, near the present Columbia, on the James River Division of the Chesapeake and Ohic Rallroad. One of these trips was made memorable to him on account of his beling captured by the Northern soldiers. Out riding one day and seeing a party of soldiers, he took them for Confederates, and rode right into their midst before discovering his mistake. They promptly turned him loses. He always laughed about the incident afterwards and took the greatest pleasure in adding think enough of him to keep him. He was not more than twelve or thirteen years of age.

was not more than twelve or thirteen years of age.

At the early age of fourteen he entered the service of his country, becoming an agent of the Richmond and Danville Rallroad at Danville, and was engaged in forwording Confederate troops and their supplies. Immediately after the war he became claim agent of the Richmond and Danville Company in the Richmond offices, Resigning this position, he became a clerk in the banking house of Edward Cohen, located at Fourteenth and Main Streets. This was known as the Merchants and Savings Bank and was the forerunner of the present City Bank, Mr. chants and Savings Bank and was the forerunner of the present City Bank. Mr. James H. Gardiner was president of this institution when Mr. Trigg entered it as a clerk, but upon his death Mr. Cohen became president and Mr. Trigg cashler. He resigned this position to become treasurer of the Richmond and West Point Terminal Railway and Warehouse Company, which has, in the course of years, become the great Southern Railway system. During this period of his life he spent much of his time in New York city. He remained to the day of his death a director in the City Bank.

HIS DISTINGUISHING WORK.

HIS DISTINGUISHING WORK.

Mr. Trigg's lifework-his distinguishing work-may be said to begin in 1884, when he accepted the position of treasurer of the Tanner and Delaney Engine Company. A few months later the duties and responsibilities of vice-president were added, and two years later, upon the death of Mr. Delaney, he was made president of the company. When he became connected with the company it was content with the manufacture of stationary engines and boilers. But a new and far bighter day was dawning for it. Under his guiding hand and spurred on by his dauntless energy, this plant was destined to make the largest of locomotives for this country. Europe and the world, for its boundaries alone were the limits of the market for the products of this mame its boundaries alone were the limits of the murket for the products of this mammeth plant when Mr. Trigg left it in 1898, as now. Soon after Mr. Trigg became the executive head of the plant its name was changed to the Richmend Locomotive and Machine, Worke.

Machine Works.

In October, 1898, Mr. Trigg organized the William R. Trigg Shipbilding Company, which in its short history has turned out some of the fastest and finest boats in American waters, and notably one steamer which is now plying the waters of the Congo River in Central Africa on missions of mercy and Christianity.

waters of the Congo River in Central Africa on missions of mercy and Christianity.

In this as in every enterprise which he touched he has been the moving spirit. During his career he has given employment te more skilled workmen at better wages than any man who has ever lived in the city, and yet he was never a wealthy man. He had many of the qualities of J. Pierpont Morgan. He was an organizer and successful promoter of business.

On Jaunary 2, 1884, Mr. Trigg married Roberta Nichols Hanewinckel, daughter of the late Fred. William Hanewinckel, for a long time consul for the German government at Richmond. He had one sister and one brother. The latter died in youth, and the former, who is also deceased, became the wife of Major E. T. D. Myers and mother of Messrs. Lilburn and E. T. D. Myers, Jr. Mr. Trigg is survived by his wife and tour chiláren, who are William Robertson, Roberta Hanewinckel, Barbara Colquhoun and Edward Goldsborough Trigg.

Mr. Trigg's death occurs upon the eve of the reorganization of the shipbuilding company and marks the shading of the first life of the plant into its second, which all hope and believe will be abundantly useful and enduring.

Impressive Services at College Attended by Prominent Men

MORGAN & OGDEN THERE

These Two Men of National Prominence Present to Show Their Respect for the Great Southern Apostle of Popular Education

The funeral services of Dr. J. L. M. Curry, in Richmond College Chapel Sun-day afternoon, could hardly have been more impressive and distinguished. more impressive and distinguished.

All day long up to to the hour of the funeral people of prominence in the city, manbers of the Legislature and visitors mmbers of the Legislature and visitors to the city wended their way to the college through the wet streets to look again upon the face of this great apostle of popular education, and one of the most conspicuous characters in the entire South. Despite, the rain and cold, people, the distinguished of the nation and the humble, went to the college, and by their presence and sympathetic interest showed their respect for this peerlss man. Dr. Curry was a national man. He was born in the South his life was spect mainly in the South, and for the South born in the South his life was spent mainly in the South, and for the South, yet he belonged to the nation and war recognized as such. How generally ! was known and honored, and how highly he was valued, was strikingly testified by the distinguished men who came hundreds of miles to attend his funeral, each one of them the representative of a group and organization, whose mission is philanthropy of the highest order.

DISTINGUISHED THRONG.

The service began at 3 o'clock. Seats were reserved in the chapel for the visitors representing the organizations with which Dr. Curry was identified, for the faculty, trustees and students of the college and for the family. Every inch of the remaining space was occupied.

Those present as representing organizations were Mr. Robert G. Ogden, president of the Southern Education Board; ident of the Southern Education Board President McIver, of the North Carolina Normal and Industrial College; Hon. Normal and Industrial College; Hon. Harry St. George Tucker, of the Southern Education Board; J. Pierpont Morgan, of the Peabody Board; Dr. Wallace Buttrick, of the General Education Board, and Mr. E. V. Valentine, of the Virginia Historical Society.

These made a larger group of men of national prominence than probably has been gathered in Richmond since the Confederate Cabinet was disbanded.

RICH FLORAL TRIBUTES.

The casket, which was exceedingly handsome was hidden from view by magnificent foral tributes. President Koosepingent foral tributes. President Koosepingent nancesome was made from view by mag-pificent floral tributes. President Roose-velt sent handome design, while that of Messrs. J. D. Rockefeller and his son, M. Wortham, James A. Moncure, Allen Potts and George Bryan.

The report of the Building Committee was a most satisfactory one. Recently there have been very valuable additions to the club's quarters. These extend down the Sixth Street side.

After the meeting, suppor, a most delightful informal affair, was served in the new addition to the building.

The club's quarters have recently been considerably enlarged. There has been no "sannex" to the building, but simply additional rooms added. Last night the meeting was held in a very commodious assembly hall, lately built. Supper was served in one of the rooms lately built. There are several additional sleeping rooms, and, altogether, the club has J. D. Jr., prepared by Hammond, of this city, was probably the richest floral tescity, was probably the richest floral tes-timonial ever seen here. All of the various boards and organizations of which Dr. Curry was a member sent flowers in profusion. Worthy of special mention were the designs sent by the trustees and by the faculty and students of the North Carolina Normal and In-dustrial College.

The musical part of the service was under the direction of Professor Jacob Reinhardt, who was assisted by a quar-tette.

The exercises began with an anthem. Dr. Charles H. Ryland led in a prayer. "Lead, Kindly Light" was sung, and Dr.

Dr. Charles H. Ryland led in a prayer.

"Lead, Kindiy Light" was sung, and Dr.
Cooper, Dr. Curry's pastor, read two selections from the Scripture, one, the one hundred and third Fsalm, and the other
First Corinthians, fifteenth chapter.

Dr. W. C. Bitting delivered the address. He spoke briefly, but with great elonuence and feeling. He was a pupil of Dr. Curry when the latter was a professor at the College and an attachment sprung up then which lasted through
Dr. Curry's life,
Another appropriate hymn was sung
at the conclusion of the address, and Dr.
Hatcher, who succeeded Dr. Curry as president of the College trusiees, offered the concluding prayer. Dr. Bitting conducted the brief committal service at the grave in Hollywood.

It is expected that a memorial service will be held here during the April meeting of the Conference for—Education in the South, and President Boatwright has offered the use of the chapel for that purpose.

CONTRACT FOR THE CATHEDRAL

J. E. I. and S. Pennock Will Do Work on the Superstructure.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Architect Mc Guire, who has designed the great Richmond Catholic Cathedral given by Street Rallway Magnate Ryan, states that J. E. I. and S. Pennock, who have offices in this city, have taken the entire contract for the surerstructure of the edifice, except furniture, decorations and the steam heating and ventilating, to cost $250,000. Mr. McGuire understands the work has started, though he has no report to that effect as yet. Indiana limestone from the Bedford auarries will be largely used in the construction, and the contract will be a large one.

The plans have not been modified as to the size of the structure, but only in other inconsequential details. Guire, who has designed the great Rich-

POSTPONE ORGANIZATION

Temporary Improvement to Streets No Definite Action Taken by Street Committee Last Night-Supper at Sacred Heart To-Night.

The Times-Dispatch Bureau, No. 1102 Hull Street. No definite plan for street improve mittee at the meeting last night, bequorum being present.

The wretched weather kept members away whose counsel was desired by this most important matter was deferred until the next regular meeting.

Some routine work was done, and the esolution presented in the Board of Aldermen by Mr. Rudd, in reference to a dermen by Mr. Rudd, in reference to a division of the street appropriation among the various wards according to the amount of taxes derived therefrom, was laid on the table, upon motion of Mr. Barnett, indefinitely.

This practically disposes of that proposition, and such action indicates that the committee intended to do what they thought bost for the entire city, without regard to any certain section.

Bids that had been asked for street work were returned to the contractors unopened, as it was deemed best to defer the letting of the contracts until the work to be done had been settled upon. The City Engineer was instructed to make needed improvements on Fourteenth Street leading up to the Sacred Heart Sunday-school room to-day, and he stated that he had anticipated the committee and temporarily releved the situation in the streets leading to Asbury Church.

SENATE STEERING COMMITTEE MEETS

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., February 16,-Much time was spont to-day by Republican Senators in conference in an effort to arrive at a satisfactory solution of the legislative problem in the Senate caused by the statehood bill, and after the Senate adjourned the Republican Steering Committee held a meeting with the same end in view.

No absolute decision was reached, but the favorite plan is to attempt to displace the statehood bill with some measure which will catch the votes of many of the friends of the statehood bill, such as the anti-trust Senators, the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, or the eightners bill

Committee on the Judeta, of the prove hour bill,

If this plan on experiment should prove impracticable, the consolidation compromise bill probably will be reported from the Committee on Territories, and an effort will be made to pass it by continuous sessions, thus exhausting debate. When the Steering Committee adjourned the understanding was that the proposed coupe should be undertaken to-morrow or next day.

"I am just as much interested in public affairs as ever, but I am not a candidate for President or any other office. I regard the obligations that rest upon the private citizen as imporative as those imposed upon public officials.
"I have felt that I can no more escape from the work that I am now trying to do than a man in the penitentiary can escape from the work imposed on him.
"I am not going to change my views on public questions and I am still prepared to give reasons for my faith."

Danville Tobacco Market (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DANVILLIP, VA. February 16.—There were 1,888,942 pounds of tobacco sold on the Danville market during the past week, and there has been a good demand for fine wrappers at satisfactory prices.

The average price this week was eight and ane-half cents per pound. Carolina brishs are showing in in limited quantities and continue to be neglected. Fresh tobacco from first hands is watched more closely and brings better prices.
